Within the Word – What to Treasure

Recently this summer, a 50lb treasure chest was found in the Rocky Mountains, by an anonymous finder. The infamous "Forrest Fenn Treasure" was notably found, from a "guy out East," Fenn said. Putting an end to the once, beloved treasure hunt known as the, "The Thrill of the chase." I myself have had fun Googling, playing with the paradoxical clues, and searching for Fenn's treasure. In his poem Fenn had imbedded 9 clues, (Google the poem) and yes, even I, your silly pastor, went out looking in vast Rocky Mountains in search of the 2 million dollar treasure chest. It's believed that over 350,000 people have ventured out into the wild since 2010; many with family and friends, enjoying the outdoors all the while looking for Forest Fenn's treasure - a fun past time.

What I discovered in my many adventures looking for gold and pearls, was that I sort of valued 'certain' things above God. As much as I'd like to admit the opposite, I do enjoy and did enjoy the hunt, more so then the treasure itself. I had found in my quests that I had priorities backwards, and was attached to things of value, along with what's really important in my life.

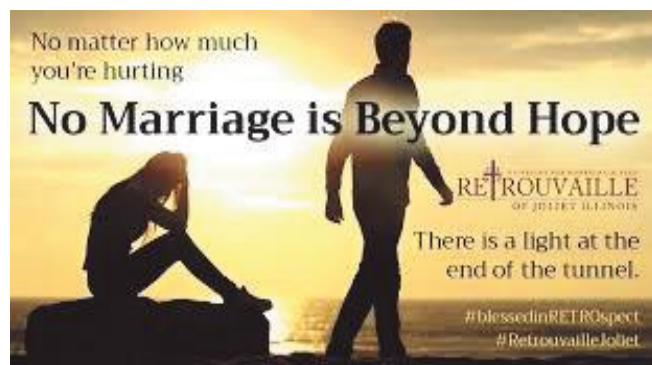

I believe that was the intent of Fenn's treasure hunt, & partly why he went ahead and hid such a cache. People don't value what's truly valuable anymore. The thrill of the chase did many things for many peoples. It helped people find God, get over a breakup or grieve over the loss of a loved one. It was fun for the sake of fun; and there's no greater fun than that. When you search; the treasure hunt becomes many things to many people - it's definitely not only about the treasure; hidden by some crazy old man, (who for kicks & giggles, wanted to watch people squirm for stones & metal). No I'd say Fenn hid the treasure, so they could find a true sense of treasure out there, in the world. Which I did every time I went out. That's the true meaning of treasure hunting -the things you discover along the way. Fenn did this to get people out & inspire folks to imagine; to get off the sofa & stop playing video games. His intentions were pure & they were successful. Many people have written books, blogs & YouTube video's of their search, & all the wonders they discovered.. Friends Jesus is the actual Treasure to Hunt... I have learned, even though I love puzzles & treasure hunting, that Jesus is the Treasure & Pearl of Great Price. Once I took that in, (it took awhile, sorry Jesus) I didn't care about the treasure anymore. I cared about finding it and solving it, (to satisfy my ego) but I found myself reflecting later on how much I don't do things with family, and/or how I continue to put things off before God; which is the wrong kind of treasure hoarding. Folks, after 4 trips & 3 years of searching, I found something worth more then Forrest Fenn's treasure. I had found the most important Treasures in my life, & I hope you can find it, if you go out & begin the Hunt....Go Treasure Hunting! You might also stumble upon a treasure in a field or The Pearl of Great price!
