A message from Fr. Cryton,

Called to a Life of Humility

We are in the 22nd week of the ordinary time. We are called to a life of humility through today's liturgy. Christianity is a way of life that calls each one to lead a life of simplicity and in utter communion with God. God opposes the proud and uplifts the downtrodden. In Luke 1:52, we find that God brought down the powerful from their thrones and raised up the lowly.

As per Anna Katharina, in the past decade in particular, psychologists have rediscovered the importance of humility. For her, they have established fascinating links between humility and our ability to learn and be effective leaders, and our readiness to engage in pro social behaviour. Let me share some of the tips that she comes out with regarding humility.

Perspective of Socrates: The Greek philosopher Socrates held that wisdom is, above all, knowing what we don't know. He taught an intellectual form of humility that freely acknowledges the gaps in our knowledge and that humbly seeks to address our blind spots.

Perspective of Aristotle: Aristotle understood humility as a moral virtue, sandwiched between the vices of arrogance and moral weakness. Like Socrates, he believed that humility must include accurate self-knowledge and a generous acknowledgment of the qualities of others that avoids distortion and extremes.

Perspective from today's Psychology: it is closely related to modesty and fairness, but also our interest in wealth and other signs of status and our inclination toward self-promotion. Crucially, it also involves seeing ourselves accurately – not thinking of ourselves more highly than is appropriate.

The Importance of Humility in Relationships: In relationships too, the key is to prioritize what the team needs, rather than just the desires of one partner. Worthington defines relational humility as our ability and capacity to prioritize the needs of the relationship. It requires being sympathetic to the other person in the relationship and seeking to consider his or her fundamental needs, as well as shaping our behaviour towards others. Relationship humility builds trust, commitment, and persistence.

For Tangney, Humility can help us in the following aspects,

- A willingness to see ourselves truthfully
- An accurate perception of our place in the world
- An ability to acknowledge our mistakes and limitations
- Openness
- Low self-focus
- An appreciation of the value of all things

Finally, we may also think of humility as a specific mind-set. For Dweck, it is a "growth mind-set." Humility entails not just admitting our shortcomings, but actively seeking to overcome them. It is about a general readiness to learn best practices from others and learn from our failures.

Do You Know! - By Deacon Tom

Another Sacrament of Healing and Mercy is the Sacrament known as Anointing of the Sick.

Before Vatican II, the Sacrament of Anointing of the Sick was commonly referred to as "the Last Rites."

The Last Rites was a popularized name for the three sacraments given to a person in danger of death, those seriously ill, or the frail and elderly. The last Rites comprise the three sacraments of Reconciliation, Holy Eucharist, and the Anointing of the Sick. The old name for this sacrament was Extreme Unction. It was generally administered only at the point of death. The new name Anointing of the Sick, makes it clear that this sacrament is about healing.

Extreme refers to the condition of those who are departing, and Unction means oil. The sacrament of the Eucharist is called Viaticum when a dying person receives it. Viaticum is a Latin word meaning "on the way with you."

The Sacrament of the Sick honors both the physical and spiritual healing presence of Christ. It holds both strengthening and curative powers and brings wholeness and well-being to those who receive it. This sacrament brings the following gifts: 1. Cures in the form of strengthening, peace, and courage to overcome the difficulties that go with serious illness or frailty of old age. 2. The gift of finding spiritual meaning for health and physical struggles. 3. Preparation for the final journey. 4. Forgiveness of sins.

Become a member of Christ's Church

RCIA will be starting soon! If you're interested in becoming a member of the Catholic Church, please ask Fr. Cryton or Deacon Tom for more info. The RCIA process is a long-standing form of initiation. In order for one to confirm their faith in Christ, one must complete the Rite of Confirmation. Please consider joining the faith through the RCIA process.

On Sunday August 21st, the Knights of Columbus instituted a "Knights of the Round Table" at St. Mary's at the 9 am Mass with the presentation of rosaries to each man who came forward to be part of the Knights. For information on the role of the Knights at St. Mary's contact Steve Hesprich 608-400-2638 / Steve@Hesprich.com or Fr. Cryton.
