A message from Fr. Cryton,

Poverty & Charity in Christian Life

Charity in Christianity is considered as the highest form of Love. The liturgy of the word in the 25th week of the ordinary time challenge us, our attitude towards the poor. I highlight today's message on importance of being charitable.

There is an inseparable bond between the Church and Christian poverty. The Incarnation wherein God emptied himself to become a human person, the birth of the Son of God in an address less manger, etc. were clear indicators of Christ's choice of the nature of the Church. Indeed, the Holy Family at Nazareth was a paradigm example of a life of Christian poverty. The Beatitudes, in which Christ presented his kingdom manifesto, opens its list proclaiming "Blessed are the poor, theirs is the Kingdom of Heaven."

The Acts of the Apostle, particularly chapters 2 and 4, tell us that the early Christians gave an authentic example of the life of Christian poverty by sharing whatever they had and caring for each other. The history of the Catholic Church, especially of Religious Orders and Congregations, takes pride in having produced greats like Francis of Assisi who embraced "Lady Poverty," and St. Ignatius Loyola who loved poverty "as a mother."

As per Job SJ, being a Church that is poor means adopting a life of simplicity. Mahatma Gandhi has said: "The world has enough to meet the need of humans, but not enough to meet their greed." We are called upon to say a sincere yes to genuine needs and an emphatic no to all forms of greed. It also means joyfully placing ourselves at the service of our brothers and sisters, after the example of Jesus who came to serve, not to be served.

According to Pope Francis, creating a Church that is poor and for the poor involves liberating ourselves from the three false cultures:

- liberation from the culture of comfort that confines us to our own comfort zone, totally unconcerned with the needs and concerns of our brothers and sisters.
- liberation from the culture of waste that enslaves us to material things for our own selfish pleasure.
- Finally, liberation from the culture of indifference that desensitizes us to the pains and sufferings of our brothers and sisters around.

Embracing Christian poverty is not a sign of weakness, but of strength. It often works wonders. It produces very tangible successful results. A Rabbinic saying says: "The rich help the poor in this world but the poor help the rich in the world to come."

"Do you Know" By Deacon Tom

This week we will look at Grace! We will look at: What is Grace and what are the different kinds of Grace. So What is Grace?

Grace is a gift from God - it is the gift of God himself. Because of his great love for us, God gives us this undeserved gift of grace so that we may be able to respond to his call to become children of God and share in the divine nature. So what are the different kinds of Grace?

This grace, though one and the same reality, namely a participation in the life of God, is traditionally expressed by the following terms: Sanctifying Grace, Sacramental Grace, and Actual Grace.

Sanctifying Grace refers to the grace received at Baptism that produces in the soul a permanent supernatural disposition that enables the believer to live according to the new law of the Gospel. Literally, this grace brings about a total transformation of the believer that is permanent, and one which gives rise to a "graced" state of being.

All sacraments have particular effects according to their individual purpose. The graces flowing from the sacraments are called Sacramental Graces. To distinguish them from the other graces (actual graces) which God gives to the believer, to those at the beginning of conversion, or to those who do not have access to the sacraments or have never heard the Gospel yet strive to live uprightly according to the light of their conscience.

Actual Grace is a supernatural intervention of God given to help the Christian in a particular circumstance or at a certain point in their vocation. For example, one might receive a special grace to start an orphanage or help deal with the death of a loved one or a painful situation. The gifts and charisms of the Spirit are actual graces because they are given to build up and sanctify the Church.

Next week we'll look at something called Signal Graces!
