We are called to live the Resurrection

Happy Easter to you all. We are called to carry the joy of the resurrection with everyone in any given situation. Theresa Borcard says, there are nine ways to live the Resurrection. I will share with you some of them.

Go Ahead and Touch Him: Jesus says to the disciples in Luke's gospel when he appears to them after his resurrection. "Touch me and see,". Jesus is real; the resurrection is real; therefore, his promises are real. That means we can trust him when he tells us that he will be with us until the end of age (Matt 28:20).

Cast out Fear: "Do not be afraid." Not that casting out fear is an easy thing to do. But if we manage to do it, even in baby steps, we'll get further away from the sorrow of the cross and closer to wonders of the empty tomb. As the late Trappist monk Thomas Merton wrote, "Fear narrows the little entrance of our heart. It shrinks up our capacity to love. It freezes up our power to give ourselves."

Go Public: Another repetition in all the resurrection accounts is Jesus' commandment to go tell it on the mountain. Even if you risk looking like a fool, tell people that the resurrection really happened. Not that we have to become annoying televangelists. But in everything we do and say, our words and deeds should always come back to the resurrection, spreading the hope of that story to everyone we meet.

Stay Humble: The Christian mystic Catherine of Siena wrote, "Be small in deep and genuine humility. Look at God, who lowered Himself to your humanity. Don't make yourself unworthy of what God has made you worthy of." Along with humility, then, comes our ability to become more than we are because of the resurrection. It's like the makeover we can't afford to have—but God can provide it for us if we believe in the empty tomb.

Walk the Road to Emmaus: The two disciples finally figure it out when Jesus sits down to eat with them and breaks bread. We have an opportunity to walk the Road of Emmaus every day if we agree with Saint Leo the Great, who said, "To share Christ's resurrection means not to be shackled by temporal things but to set our hearts on the eternal life he is offering us here and now.... Our resurrection has already begun in Christ, and he longs to lead us into the fullness of life and healing."

Recognize God in All Things: If Lent is about becoming quiet in order to hear God, Easter is about singing "Alleluia" with Him. And if the 40 days beginning with Ash Wednesday are about detaching ourselves from certain people, places, and things, in order to know ourselves more truly and love ourselves more fully, then Easter is about celebrating all the people, places, and things in our lives that promote goodness, beauty, and love. "We can find God in everything," wrote Pope John Paul II, "we can commune with Him in and through all things." He is alive, and he is everywhere.

Did You Know/ Tour of the Church

The Cross and Crown is a familiar symbol in Christian churches. It represents the reward awaiting in heaven (the crown) that believers will receive after the suffering and trials of life on earth (the cross).

Blessed is the man who perseveres under trial, because when he has stood the test, he will receive the crown of life that God has promised to those who love him. (James 1:12)

How about inviting someone to Church? Their answer might surprise you!

-Deacon Tom
